

Herringbone Stitch

We're going to stitch from the left of the square to the right.
Start with a diagonal straight stitch, from the top left to bottom right.

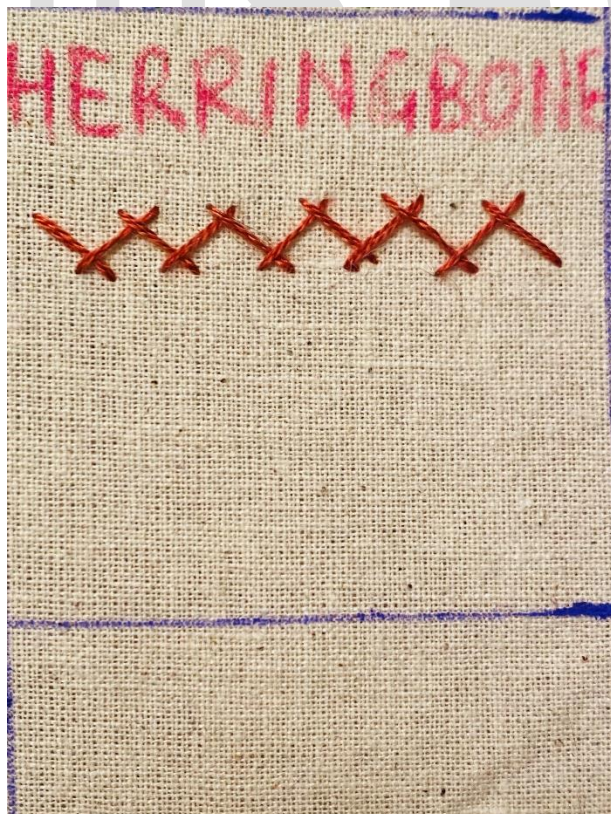

Come up again at the bottom right – but closer to the bottom of the stitch than the top – the cross isn't going to be even, like a cross stitch, but more like a 'V' with the bottom crossed – see also picture below.

Continue on in this way with alternate stitches up and down, keeping the cross close together.
The aim is to get the stitches as even as possible.

Then have fun playing with the stitch – trying out different lengths, different angles and heights.
